

All the programs provide practical classroom-tested ideas and materials that integrate economics with the K-8 curriculum.

To schedule programs email Callie Marks-bary (cmarksbary@lsc.k12.in.us) or Mary Sturgeon (msturgeon@lsc.k12.in.us), call the Purdue Center for Economic Education (765.494.7336), or mail in the attached workshop interest card from this brochure.

TRADING AROUND THE WORLD

A collection of activities focusing on trade, geography, and history of the world. Designed for the older child but can be adapted to all grade levels. There's something for everyone.

FINANCIAL FITNESS FOR LIFE

Teachers will learn to use experiences and stories about children to teach hands-on personal finance concepts. Young students understand how their economic decisions are important.

TAKING THE STRESS OUT OF ALL OF THOSE STANDARDS!

Gives teachers tips and fun activities that show how to meet language arts, math, science, and social studies standards using economics lessons and activities.

K-2 POCKET POWER

Great series of math/economic lessons that help students apply economics and decision-making skills to the real world.

TEACHING ECONOMICS USING CHILDREN'S LITERATURE

Practical lessons that use popular children's books to integrate economic concepts with language arts, social studies, and math standards.

THE GINGERBREAD MAN

A series of K-3 economic lessons written to enhance social studies/language arts standards.

MATHEMATICS & ECONOMICS Connections for Life Grades 3-5

Practical lessons correlated to both economic and mathematic national standards.

PLAYFUL ECONOMICS

Hands-on activities using Play-Doh® to demonstrate economic concepts for all grade levels.

MINI - ECONOMY

Students learn important economic concepts by simulating a real economy in the classroom—tailored for grades K-3, 4-5, Middle school, or all inclusive K-8.

THE GREAT ECONOMIC MYSTERY BOOK

Students solve engaging mysteries about everyday life by responding to hints and by applying the "economic way of thinking." Good for grades 4-8.

CHOICES & CHANGES

These materials are divided into two sections, for grade levels 2-4 and 5-6. Lessons for grades 2-4 emphasize children's literature and focus on decision-making skills. Lessons for grades 5-6 are activity based and correlated with economics, history, and literature standards.

Mary Sturgeon
AND
Callie Marksbarry

Mary and Callie are experienced classroom teachers who have been widely recognized for their teaching and curriculum writing in the area of economic education. Area schools and groups of teachers are invited to contact Callie and Mary to schedule presentations lasting one to four hours in length.

These workshops will typically count towards the Professional Growth Plans of participating teachers whose plans feature elements of elementary education, social studies, economics, or business education.

Contact hours determine the number of points earned by workshop participants toward the acquisition of skills and content identified on the Professional Growth Plan.
